

Early Rush to the Polls on the Upper West Side, Showing How Women in Line Outnumbered Men

LARGE, WET NIGHT OF CELEBRATIONS IS IN STORE HERE

Election Parties to Throng
Big Hotels and Streets
as of Old.

All indications point to one large night of election celebration from Park Row to Central Park with minor doings at points north and south and east and west.

Also—but say it in whispers—there may be a drink or two, unless Frank L. Boyd, Superintendent of Prohibition Enforcement Agent, will play a white and delectable game when he told reporters this morning that 80 per cent. of his men are taking a holiday.

Anyway, to judge from the reservations already received at the big hotels and restaurants, New York intends to make a night of it in the historic way. And it is certain that so far as the daylight hours are concerned New York is better to-day than it usually has been on Election Day.

This is attributed to the fact that at earlier elections, when the sale of liquor was legal after the closing of the polls and illegal during voting hours, the law was generally obeyed. The saloons were closed. But now that the saloons are supposed to be selling nothing but ginger ale and such things they are not required to close, and those of them that sell booze at all are selling it to-day as on other days.

Many private election parties of business men, women's clubs, State societies, etc., will gather at the hotels to-night for dinner and the return of elaborate preparations have been made at such hotels as the Waldorf, the Claridge, the McAlpin—all the big ones. The news will be received by special wires and posted in the dining rooms and lobbies.

Unprecedented street crowds are expected and the police have arranged to handle them. Three hundred extra cops will be on duty in the City Hall section. There will be extra also in the vicinity of Socialist headquarters and Tammany Hall. And there will be a big force of extra men in the Times Square section, where it is expected that one-way regulations for pedestrians will be enforced. The neighborhood streets meeting on the east side of the street and the south-bound on the west side.

The Ohio Society will meet at the Waldorf to-night, the International Sporting Club in the Astor City, the Rotary Club at the McAlpin.

PORTO RICO IN FIRST GENERAL ELECTION

SAN JUAN, PORTO RICO, Nov. 2.—Porto Rico, with the greatest number of voters ever registered, to-day held the first general election since the granting of American citizenship. A commissioner to Washington, member of the legislature and other commissioners of all the municipalities were to be chosen.

Three threats were in the field, Republican, Socialist and Prohibitionist. One of the officers, the legislature and legislature united in opposition to the Prohibitionist, who now control the legislature. This was the first election since the new constitution was adopted, and the first time that the island of the island was held.

$8,000 TAX DELINQUENCIES.

Rockville Centre Threatens Summary Action Unless Payments Are Made.

Following the discovery by Mayor J. Dunn, village president of Rockville Centre, that delinquencies in the payment of village taxes since 1912 amounted to $8,000, notices were sent out today that if payment were not made within a short time, summary action would be taken.

The tax rate is low and the collectors have changed frequently at the village's expense, according to the village president, and the village is at a loss to understand how the delinquencies could have occurred.

HOARDERS OF COAL AMONG LANDLORDS SOUGHT BY POLICE

Harlem Owner Had 200 Tons
Secreted—Heatless Tenants to Get Relief.

Seventy-five patrolmen assigned to the Board of Health are proving up on the appeals of the heatless for coal supplies. The task has resolved itself into a search for hidden treasure, for many cases of coal hoarding have been unearthed by Lieut. Thomas Gleason and his men, and reports have been made to Dr. Copeland, Commissioner of Health.

To-day there are 217 such appeals awaiting investigation. In a Harlem apartment house yesterday patrolmen found 200 tons of coal, though the landlord claimed he had none. "They secreted the coal like diamonds," said Lieut. Gleason.

Dr. Copeland declared that landlords who rely on the alibi of defective or broken heating apparatus will be dealt with according to law. Borough President Bruckner has opened a coal bureau in Borough Hall, the Bronx, and has assigned Deputy Commissioner of Public Works Hlawutich to the job of aiding Bronxites to get coal. This bureau rendered the service two years ago during the coal crisis of that time. The Borough President has notified all the tenants associations and the taxpaying organizations to file their claims early. The Bronx households consume 700,000 tons of coal a year.

COURT CHIDES GUM CHEWER.

Miss Townsend Had Just Reported Loss When It Was Returned.

Leaving a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gleason in the No. 41 East 45th Street, to see a friend across the street, Miss Sara Townsend of Wilmington, Del., returned yesterday and missed a bracelet valued at $8,500.

She reported her loss to the East 47th Street Station. When she returned to the Huntington home she found the bracelet had been returned by Patrolman William Bennett of East 47th Street, who found it in the sidewalk near the house and decided it belonged to some one at the reception.

SOLDIERS SEARCH M'SWINEY HOME, IS REPORT IN CORK

Disorder Increasing and Terror Spreads to Many Irish Towns.

CORK, Nov. 2 (United Press).—British soldiers forced an entrance into the home of the late Terence MacSwiney last night. They searched the former Lord Mayor's two sisters, Annie and Mary, and the two brothers, Peter and John. It was reported. They went through the entire house in search of records.

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Ireland is in a state of terrorism, according to reports received from there to-day. A wave of outbreaks has swept over the island following the funeral of the late Lord Mayor MacSwiney, and predictions are freely made here that the situation has by no means reached its worst stage.

Aside from the killing of one District Inspector, one Sergeant and four Constables, thirteen officers have been wounded, while many houses have been burned or wrecked by bombs. The Town Hall at Tralee was destroyed by fire, while many houses were blown up in Limerick, where petrol was used to complete the destruction. The village of Ballyduff in Tipperary was partly destroyed by incendiary explosions and one civilian was killed there.

The most serious trouble in Ulster was that which followed an attack on a police patrol in Dungannon. One policeman was wounded and the attacking party escaped. Many houses in the Sinn Féin quarters were searched, but no arrests were made. Later a body of disguised men entered the town and fired many shots, following which women and children fled in terror to the open country.

where they remained for the night. In Humberston, County Donegal, no less were posted stating that if harm was done to members of the Crown's forces or their friends five Sinn Féiners would be hanged for each casualty in the forces of the Crown.

Meanwhile in Liffelton, Tipperary, armed civilians were active and succeeded in capturing the police barracks there, with all the arms and ammunition in the place.
